Arrival Information – Indira Gandhi International Airport

Upon arrival at the airports in India, travelers will proceed through customs and passport control.

Arrival Process:

- Follow the signs for Arrivals and Exit to reach Passport Control.

- For passport holders from certain countries or territories, no prior visa arrangements are necessary to visit India. Upon arrival at Indira Gandhi International Airport, travelers from these countries will receive a 30-day visit visa stamp free of charge.

After completing Passport Control, travelers will proceed to the baggage carousels:

- Ensure you retain your baggage tag receipt until your bag is collected.
- Screens in the baggage reclaim hall will indicate the correct conveyor belt for your flight.

Following baggage collection, travelers will pass through Customs control:

- Travelers with nothing to declare can pass through Customs.
- Important customs information regarding drugs, medications, firearms, and dangerous weapons should be noted.

After you have passed through Customs control with your baggage:

Please look for the Citizen Ambassador Programs Signage, held by the ground team representative.

Identify yourself as part of the Citizen Ambassador Delegation. The driver/ground representative will then transfer all delegates and accompanying guests to the hotel.

If for any reason you cannot locate the representative meeting your flight, please call your Delegation Manager, as the representative will be looking for you, while you are looking for him/her. The Delegation Manager is also available on your delegation WhatsApp.

See emergency contacts.

Upon arrival at Taj Palace in New Delhi:

Identify yourself as part of the Citizen Ambassador Delegation. Your Delegation Manager will be available to assist with Check-in. You will be asked to show your passport for identification.
